

ADDITIONAL/EXTRA CURRICULUM INFORMATION

My C.V. in European Format reproduces in an extremely concise way certain aspects of my profile, background and activity; therefore I consider appropriate to provide some additional information

LIFE EXPERIENCE

The personal experience I had during my life, in my case, is at least as important as the work experience written in my resumé.

I would like to underline that life has led me to international experiences (beyond those related with my work and profession) such as to make me breathe what nowadays is called "Cross Culture".

- a) I was born in Chile from an Italian family, and left my country when I was 15 years old.
- b) I finished High School in Argentina.
- c) In the meantime I had a long study experience in Switzerland.
- d) Later my family due to work reasons moved to Spain, country where I finished my Bachelor and the country where I got a great experience in the Tourism field.
- e) Deeply bound to my Italian origin, and as a free choice, in 1992 I decided to move to Milan, where I live and work as a Consultant.

To these five countries, I should add another two, where for business reasons I have lived for long periods (more than 6 months):

- Venezuela and
- Dominican Republic

I cannot leave out and not mention the in-depth bond I do have with Latin America, continent that I visit quite frequently due to professional and personal reasons (Mexico, Chile, etc.).

LANGUAGES

The fact of being mother tongue with Spanish gives me great communication advantages.

Italian is my second language, but I am perfectly bilingual.

English, language that due to my academic background I do speak and write since I was a little girl, gives me the confidence and sense of security of not having communication barriers wherever in the world I live and work.

TRIP AVAILABILITY

Trips and transfers have always been part of my life.

Trips for work reasons have always been and important part of my tasks.

And I am still available and open to travel.

What does this life of continuous movement and trips gave me?

- A great scenery of “Cross Culture” with simultaneous interaction with many and different cultures.
- A great flexibility doing business; and above all in interpersonal relationships.
- I think that I am able to apply my professional background in different activities and not only in the Tourism field.
- In the past, I have developed experiences in other fields.
